

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A multi-processing system 2 measures the degree of parallelism achieved in executing program instructions and uses this to dynamically control the clock speeds and supply voltage levels applied to different processor cores 4, 6 so as to reduce the 5 overall amount of energy consumed by matching the processing performance achieved to the clock speeds and voltage levels used.

[Figure 1]